An EU cross-border merger is the coming together ("merger") of two or more companies (or partnerships) which are incorporated in at least two EU member states. EU cross-border mergers are regulated by the 2005 European Directive on Cross-Border Mergers of Limited Liability Companies, which is transposed by EU member states into national law. In the UK, this is achieved through the Companies ...

What is a Cross-Border Merger? | Michelmores

These cross-border mergers are a reasonably well travelled path and, whilst not commonplace, have been used a number of times in relation to UK companies. A cross-border merger represents one of the most efficient ways of merging a UK entity with another EEA entity or vice versa. As there is a real prospect that this option will no longer be available after Brexit, now is the time to ...
